German Woman Teachers Who Wed During War Are Retained.

orrespondence of the Associated Press. BERLIN, September 10.—The magis ceneberg have decided that woman school teachers who marry during the war shall be retained in office and receive the pay drawn by them before. It will also be endeavored to secure for them the increased pay granted from state funds for length of service. The authorities explain that "the situation created by the war makes it more and more requisite to encourage marriage Schoeneberg's action is a step in ad-Schoeneberg's action is a step in advance of any other Prussian city. Others, including Berlin proper, permitted woman teachers married to soldiers in the first days of the conflict to retain their positions, but they have not gone further. Scientific men are advocating the removal of any limitation on the marriage of woman teachers. Dr. Felix Theilhaber, a well known authority on social and sociological subjects, recently directed attention to the fact that nearly 26 per cent of all women in Berlin forty years old are single, a number almost double that of a generation ago.

British Surgeons Treat French.

Correspondence of the Associated Press. PARIS, September 20.-British sur geons have treated 16,000 cases and performed 463 operations on civilian patients in the zones of their armies in France since the beginning of the war. They had not only to treat all the current ills of the region, but were requested to combat the epidemics that follow war. All the inhabitants of the British zone were vaccinated against typhoid, and special hospitals were created for children. A considerable number of civilians wounded by shell-fire also required their attention.

SARDINIA ONE OF FEW SPOTS TO ESCAPE RAVAGES OF WAR

Little Known Island Off Coast of Italy Presents Fertile Field for European Tourist.

When Europe, at peace once more, invites the American traveler to its shores one of the few spots whose ruins will not suggest the sanguinary struggle which has brought sorrow and desolation to practically all that warridden continent is little-known Sardinia, the subject of a communication from Helen Dunstan Wright to the National Geographic Society. A part of the writer's descriptive article has been issued by the society as a geography of 53,000 inhabitants, the largest in issued by the society as a geography bulletin which says:

ranean route have at least had a glimpse of Sardinia from their steamer sight for some hours, and, if the steamer passes sufficiently close, a Roman outlook towers remain similiar to those scattered along the south shores of Spain. The tourist seldom includes a trip to Sardinia in his travels, as neither of his advisers, Thomas Cook nor Baedeker, recommends it to him. It, however, is one of the few foreign fields that have not been overrun and overfed by the tourist, and in many of the villages a traveler is still regarded as a guest and not as a prey to be pounced upon.

"Some day, when tourists are tired of taking the tours laid out for them by the guide books, perhaps they will break away from the continent and set sail for Sardinia, especially if they are not traveling just to enjoy hotel comforts. One can rent a good automobile at Cagliari, and a week spent touring around the island would probably leave the pleasantest of recollections and an experience long to be remembered.

tello. These are probably of the same period as the nuraghi, the famous prehistoric truncated cones thirty feet in diameter at the base and built by the men of the bronze age.

"The 'nuraghi' were undoubtedly fortified habitations. They are usually situated in commanding positions at the entrance to tablelands, near the fords of rivers or on almost inaccessible mountain peaks and within signaling distance of one another. Traces of at least 5,000 of these remains have been found.

"The ancient tombs of the inhabitants of the 'inuraghi' are usually found near them. These are called the 'tombs of the giants' and are three and one-half feet wide and from thirty to forty feet long, with a roof of flat slabs or rocks and with the sides made of the slabs or rocks and with the sides made of the slabs or rocks and with the sides made of the slabs or rocks and with the sides made of the slabs or rocks and with the sides made of the slabs or rocks and with the sides made of the slabs or rocks and with the sides made of the slabs or rocks and with the sides made of the slabs or rocks and with the sides made of the slabs or rocks and with the sides made of the slabs or rocks and with the sides made of the slabs or rocks an

The Remarkable Increase in the Cost of Living Without Corresponding Increase in Salaries Has Forced a Problem on the People of Washington

INCREASE IS SHOWN IN COST OF LIVING

Practically All Food Supplies Quoted Higher, Ranging From 20 to 40 Per Cent.

With the market on grain a trifle higher dealers in flour look to see the price for that commodity soar higher than it is at present, and efforts to secure government intervention declaring an embargo on the exportation of wheat as a measure of protection to the consumers in the United States are being exerted by the largest business influences.

Meanwhile practically all other food supplies continue to advance in price, and are now 20 to 40 per cent higher than normal. One of the very few articles that have not advanced is rice, and food authorities are recommending that this be used extensively by the American people. Notice that baking powder is to be increased about 40 per cent has been served on dealers. This increase is due principally to the fact that the best brands of baking powder are made from cream of tartar, which comes from France, and the supply has to a great extent been cut off.

Lard is at higher price than retailers in Washington have ever known. The normal price is about 12 to 14 cents, and recently it has been selling as high as The prices for potatoes are also the highest they have been within the recollection of local dealers. The best potatoes are now selling for 45 cents a

We reproduce a news item from The Star of Sept. 30, 1916. Truly a remarkable situation exists, and the best informed opinion is that no immediate relief is in sight.

How to meet the situation is giving no little concern to every one. That the problem exists is not to be disputed, and that money-saving opportunities are not to be overlooked, we believe will be readily admitted.

We are operating SEVENTY-FOUR (74) (more soon) neat, clean, attractive grocery stores in Washington and suburbs, offering only standard merchandise usually found in first-class stores, and we submit that by patronizing us you will be able to secure the grade of merchandise you have been accustomed to use, and at the same time effect substantial savings.

To prove this to yourself, spend a few minutes in our store nearest your home, inspecting goods and prices.

Our business methods eliminate all high-priced service, but the savings go to you in the remarkably low prices always in effect at our 74 stores.
